Query—Is the Executive building and military equipment the property of the United States or the Republic of Hawaii?

If Seattle doesn't have a share of the shipping from the country, it will not be because the merchants there do not send out steamers enough.

Great care should be taken by the officials at Washington that the officers of the Republic of Hawaii do not "run them out of their jobs."

Honolulu now has all the Wall street fixtures except the beautiful Trinity chimes. The military headquarters bell might be moved down town as a starter.

When Tacoma merchants promise a local steamship line with the Arizona as a type of the steamers used. Honolulu will begin to look up. But the steamer is not promised yet.

With prospective Secretary Hay coming into his new duties direct from British associations, it does seem reasonable that the Anglo-American combination is becoming something more than indifferently friendly.

Henry M. Stanley writes a Chicago friend that the people better stop and think a while before making a definite alliance with Great Britain. Henry shows not a little good sense in his forecast of political exploration.

A London despatch states that the American forces found $800 in the treasury at Manila. The Spanish evidently intend to make assurance doubly sure that the United States shall not reap a cash war indemnity.

Officers of the American troops there are hot on the trail of the marauders. Col. Barber on his arrival here informed his regiment that any man failing to respect private property in this city would be dealt with according to the most strict military discipline known.

Should the religious people of the city start noon-day prayer meetings down town it would be dubbed ultra-missionary. Yet bad New York city finds good patronage in business centers for such religious work. Of course it is true that New Yorkers need it more than Honolulu citizens.

The Army and Navy Journal says that the great and only hero of the late war is Eosign Curtin. This officer after landing at the Port of Ponce sent his ultimatum to the Spanish commander at Ponce by telephone! This is the most up to date method of securing a surrender of armed forces that is on record.

The Only Ones in urging their followers not to put confidence in what was published by the evening papers regarding the future government, wind up with the statement: "This is simply an opinion in the matter." This last is very aptly put in. The movement for liberal government does not seem to take well in the morning field.

ANOTHER MONARCHY!

An able article has recently appeared, describing the government of the District of Columbia. That government is demonstrated to be on the monarchical plan with the President as king. It is a notorious fact that the District government was devised to get over the negro vote. Have the people of these islands been released from the thrall of our monarchy only to come under the yoke of another? And is the bright hope of American citizenship, held out to them these five years, to be wiped out and replaced with the fact of limbo vassalage? There is a league in Washington today having the object of procuring the rights of freemen for the residents of the District of Columbia. Surely the people of Hawaii are not doomed to pass an indefinite period under the American flag in an agitation for the glorious rights of American citizens.

SHOW THE CARDS.

While the Commission now sitting will do just as it pleases, we fail to see the necessity of executive sessions when that body is dealing with matters of a purely local nature. The report and all the details thereof will be fully and completely aired when Congress meets. Then the Hawaiian people can get up on their hind legs and howl, if the arrangement of affairs is not to their liking, but that is about all they can do. At the present time the popular knowledge of on what line the Commission is driving has to be obtained from Washington, by whatever indirect system the citizens here may have through personal friends there.

The Commission asks the people of the country their opinions. The people in turn ask: "On what system of government are you at work?" Not until the hearing has progressed some weeks is it made known that "nothing towards Statehood" is to be recognized. This key note was sounded before the Commissioners left Washington. What harm could be accomplished had the local people known it in the first place? The public would like to know what harm can be done the American people by the Commission laying before the public eye any other cards they may have up their sleeves.

SORENSEN-NICKELSEN.

Two Well-known Young People Happily Married.

In St. Andrew's Cathedral at 8 o'clock last evening, Miss St. Clair Franka Nickelsen was married to Olaf Lauritz Sorenson, Rev. Alex. Mackintosh performing the ceremony according to the ritual of the American Episcopal Church. The choir of St. Andrew's sang "How Welcome was the Call" as the bridal party marched up the aisle and during the ceremony De Koven's "Oh Promise Me" was played on the organ by Wray Taylor.

The bride was given away by her cousin, Deputy Sheriff Omsted of Waima, Kauai. Miss Kulawann Ward was maid of honor and Miss Helen Sorenson and Miss Soper were bridesmaids. W. Armstrong was best man and Arthur Wall and Norman Halstead, groomsmen. The ushers were Chas. Weight and Arthur Mackintosh.

The ceremony over, the party marched out of the cathedral with the L heggin Wedding March pealing forth on the organ. From the church, the bridal party and a number of invited guests went to the home of Mrs. Ashford on Beckett street, where a reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Sorenson left for a honeymoon trip to Kona, Hawaii, on the Kaima this morning. They will return in a week so to go to house-keeping in their new home on Wilder Avenue.

REMEMBER THE MAINE

Thing to know is that we are gas and electrical engineers and that we are here for business. We install complete gas and electric plants with all the fixtures, etc., ready to run.

We handle all kinds of ELECTRICAL GOODS, gas and electric fixtures.

We are also sole agents for the Columbia Phonograph Co., and American Battery Co., "makers of the best storage batteries in the world."

We have already installed the following Acetylene gas plants complete with all fixtures which are giving entire satisfaction. Government Light House in harbor, Hawaiian Tramways Co., Mr. W. Hilt's residence, Oahu Railway and Land Co., and the new residence of Hon. C. W. Macfarlane at the Peninsula.

The light is absolutely reliable and will not go out as long as any gas remains in the generator.

The cost based on candle power is from $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ as cheap as electric lights at the present rates.

Several of the plants already installed are equipped with electric gas lighting burners which make the use of gas as convenient as electric lights at about one-half the cost. A plant placed in your house makes you independent of lighting companies.

Our generator has received the unqualified approval of the Honolulu Board of Underwriters which does away with any increased rate of insurance. Call in and examine goods and get our prices. We want only a fair profit.

Remember that all our work, big or little is absolutely guaranteed and we replace and repair all material and labor which is defective within six months. Give us a trial order.
